Workshop participants have said...

“IMAGINE... peace.”

“The strength and knowledge of the presenters filled me with motivation and courage to make a difference in my school and community. In all of my teaching experiences, this was the most effective workshop that I have attended.”

“In my 13 years of teaching, this was the best and most informative conference I have attended. I will most definitely share this with my staff and include this into our curriculum.”

“Excellent job! The presentation/information should be part of every school system.”

LINDSAY ANN BURKE

MEMORIAL FUND

MISSION STATEMENT

The Lindsay Ann Burke Memorial Fund was founded to honor the life of Lindsay Ann Burke, a 23 year old Rhode Island College graduate from North Kingstown, R.I. Lindsay was a compassionate, honest, and trusting young woman who cared deeply for others. She was trying to break the cycle of violence when she was murdered. Lindsay was an education major and came from a family of educators. We believe she would want us to break the silence and work towards ending relationship violence through education. As such, this fund will support the prevention of relationship violence primarily through the education of teens, parents, educators, and the public.

“What a landslide of awareness the information created.”

-Mary Caporelli
School Administrator

“The staff is more aware of the implications for our students. They know how to respond appropriately as a result of the training.”

-Michele Humbyrd
Principal

LABMF began its dating violence workshops for teachers in 2006. Through our workshops, which are approved for professional development contact hours by the Rhode Island Department of Education, we have trained thousands of teachers throughout Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Louisiana. In 2007 Rhode Island was the first state to pass a comprehensive dating violence education law known as the Lindsay Ann Burke Act. Since then several other states have passed laws based on Lindsay's law. The Lindsay Ann Burke Memorial Fund is pleased to present its original workshop on DVD to help schools implement these laws. Teachers who are trained in dating violence will be able to identify episodes at school, safely help victims, and play an active role in the prevention of dating violence through education in the classroom.

Developed for school staff, this DVD can be used as part of a school-based professional learning community. With minor adaptation, it may also be used to train any group of adults, such as parents, mental health and medical personnel, other professionals, college students, or the public. It is intended for use with adults, as the information contained in this workshop is powerful and can affect people both professionally and personally. This DVD is NOT intended to be used to teach teens.

All participant handouts available at our website, www.labmf.org, with purchase of DVD.
